

Ferdinand K., deceased; Amazo Lafayette, who served in the Civil war as a member of Company D, Thirty-eighth Iowa Infantry; Alonzo Washington, twin to Amazo, and a resident of Fort Dodge, Iowa; Harrison Jackson, of this review; and William and Sophia, deceased.

Harrison J. Goddard was nine years of age when his parents moved to Winneshiek county and he has since made his home in this part of Iowa. On the 20th of July, 1864, he enlisted in Company C, Thirteenth Iowa Volunteer Infantry, and served with credit and ability until the close of hostilities, receiving his honorable discharge at Davenport in 1865. Returning home, he turned his attention to farming and in this occupation has since continued. His homestead contained originally one hundred and sixty acres but he has since given eighty acres to his son, retaining a tract similar in extent for himself. He makes a specialty of growing a high grade of seed corn called Silver King, and the Maple Seed Farm contains also a well cultivated ginseng garden. His business interests are always capably managed and systematically conducted and have brought him in the course of years a gratifying measure of success.

On the 1st of January, 1869, Air. Goddard was united in marriage to Miss Rhoda Horton, who was born August 14, 1851, and who died February 3, 1912. To this union were born four children: Lola, who was born August 30, 1869, and who married Frederick Krumm, of Fort Atkinson; Nellie, who was born October 2, 1870, and who died on October 9th of the same year; Edith, who was born September 9, 1871, and who died September 27, 1891; and Ernest, who was born October 26, 1874, and who is now residing in Fort Atkinson.

Mr. Goddard gives his political allegiance to the republican party and takes a commendable and intelligent interest in the affairs of the community where he has resided since pioneer times. He attends the Methodist church and belongs to the local post of the Grand Army of the Republic. A life of activity and usefulness has been rewarded by prominence and prosperity and has won for him an enviable position in the regard of his fellowmen.

JOHN CUNNINGHAM.

One of the most extensive landowners in Winneshiek county and one of the most progressive and substantial agriculturists in this part of Iowa is John Cunningham, who since 1873 has lived in Orleans township, engaged in farming. The years have brought him well deserved and substantial success and he has accumulated large holdings, owning today seven hundred acres of fine land lying partly in Winneshiek and partly in Howard county. This is in addition to nine hundred and sixty acres to which he holds title in Manitoba.

John Cunningham was born in Scotland, March 4, 1848, and is a son of Adam and Sophia Cunningham, natives of that country. The parents came to America in 1854 and settled in Ogdensburg, New York, where the father followed the trades of stone mason and contractor until his death. The mother also passed away in Ogdensburg, dying June 4, 1861. In this family were seven children: Marian, deceased; John, of this review; Mary, who became the wife of John Fields, of Canton, New York; Carrie, who married Fred Merritt, of West Vir
